Hey Dad, it's me

Although it's noisy in here, I will be able to hear your voice from about 20 weeks. Try telling me about the things we will do together.

Right now my brain is really flat out making connections for all sorts of things. Pretty soon I'll be trying to get my head steady so I can really look at your face.

I want to figure out exactly who you are, and I want to watch how you look to see if you're happy or sad or growlie.

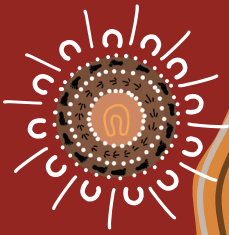

I listen to you too. Cause I want a real good bond with you. That'll set me up for life. You seem to be doing a lot, and you might think I'm not much help.

If you watch me and talk to me while we do stuff, that feels good to me and it feels good for you too, I see it in your eyes.

We are on the same team here. You're the one I'm looking for to fall in love with me. I'm really stoked on you. We're a team.

It's simple & free
